

Addressing the topic of religion. Our last chance.

As a result of many years of immersion in the spiritual process and the experience gained, I came to a sad conclusion. Humanity does not see the one-and-only way out of the dead end to which it has driven itself.

The real way out lies in reconciliation with the Creator, with His Laws, which rule the world. We do not accept them de facto, but the growing troubles are the inevitable return of all sins back to us.

True religion is the core of our very existence. Without a deep realization of it through personal experience, no one will attain a good life. Unfortunately, most people regard religion as a hobby, a fairytale for simpletons, opium for the masses, etc.

And what is even worse is the sanctimonious hypocrisy, the pretending to be believers with a particular gain in mind. There are plenty of such Pharisees.

So why has such a powerful and straightforward religion like Christianity failed to be understood by the masses? Why cannot even the part of humanity that considers itself religious believers get rid of sins for decades, if not many centuries?

Of course, the main reason is laziness, in this case - spiritual laziness. But not all humanity is completely lazy. Many honestly try to follow the calling of Christ. However, as life has proven, such spiritual practices as merely praying, fasting, and visiting holy sites are not enough. The quality of our life is inexorably and rapidly deteriorating.

In our beautiful world, governed by the most just Holy Will, this can happen only in two cases: either there is no desire to repent and stop sinning, or there is a lack of knowledge of how to do it. The first point concerns materialists, and the second - the so-called believers.

Some are continuously troubled by the thought: "Why doesn't the Lord punish scoundrels and help us who are worthy?" And people who live with no faith, who are accustomed to trusting only their reasoning mind, in their observance of current global events, have the following thought: "There is no justice, and everything is sliding into the abyss. We must hold out for as long as possible at any cost! And here everything goes!" Ethics and conscience have become too burdensome for many.

The Son of God showed us the Way, giving us knowledge on how to move toward the goal. Judging by the considerable number of Christian denominations, each one of them somehow defined their perspective on the Word spoken by Christ differently. So who holds the keys to accurate Knowledge?

Please note that not a single nation, not one slightly visible group of people led by these guides, has thrived after many centuries, and none have learned to live according to the Law of God.

There has to be a reason for such failure. It would be blasphemy to think that Jesus could have given man an impossible task. Very likely, some of the most critical elements of the Word spoken two thousand years ago are missing or distorted.

The sequence of world events that we observe and which frighten us is a verdict to humanity, and the Holy Will carries it out. The Last Judgment is in progress!

In conclusion, I would like to say, remember the Bible: during the Judgment, the Word of God will visit the Earth once again. Seek and find It, for It is always with us. It is our last chance!
